

Modular boxes in black bamboo.

Organize your daily rituals

Five boxes. One shared spirit.

THE COLLECTION

Five black bamboo boxes.
Three complementary sizes.
A collection to arrange around your belongings and your daily routines.

Two dividers create three compartments in each medium box. One divider splits each small box into two.

Side by side or stacked, with or without dividers, the collection becomes part of your daily rituals.

One collection. Make it your own.

Black. Texture. Detail.

EBONY / MATTE

Black-stained bamboo retains its visible grain. The matte finish emphasises the collection's simple lines.

A groove runs around the outer walls. A small engraved logo, filled in black, gives each box a discreet signature.

TONE-ON-TONE ENGRAVING

Space, set free.

WITHOUT DIVIDERS

Remove the dividers to create five open spaces. The inner grooves in the small and medium boxes allow you to slide them back into place.

Notebooks, accessories and longer objects find their place in an open arrangement.

Open up the space. Keep the clean lines.

One large box, two medium and two small. The dividers are removable.

A sense of balance at the centre.

CENTRAL ARRANGEMENT

The large box sits between the two medium boxes. The two small boxes complete the arrangement at the front.

This layout places the largest space at the centre, with narrower storage on either side.

The large box at the heart of the collection.

Nominal footprint of this arrangement: 40 × 35 cm.

Follow your inspiration.

L-SHAPED ARRANGEMENT

The two small boxes extend the large box. The two medium boxes stay together at the side.

Together they form an L: another way to arrange the same five modules and organise your essentials.

Five modules. A different perspective.

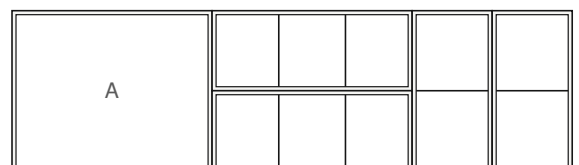

Order, all along the line.

LINEAR ARRANGEMENT

The large box starts the arrangement. The two medium boxes, each divided into three, occupy the centre. The two small boxes, divided into two, complete the line.

The large box has a 25 cm front edge and a depth of 20 cm. The front and back edges align to form one continuous rectangle.

Two levels. A new perspective.

TWO MEDIUM BOXES

The two medium boxes sit side by side on the large box. Each holds two dividers, creating three compartments.

The small boxes can stay nearby or become part of another arrangement.

Take your arrangement to another level.

Partial view: one large box and two medium boxes. Stacking principle shown on page 15.

Leave room at the centre.

TWO SMALL BOXES

Placed at either end of the large box, the small boxes create an upper level with an opening in the centre.

The two medium boxes remain available to extend the arrangement at the sides or to be used separately.

The same pieces. A new arrangement.

Partial view: one large box and two small boxes. The layout leaves a nominal 5 cm gap in the centre.

The everyday ritual.

AT THE COFFEE STATION

Tea, capsules, spoons and small jars are grouped by use. All your coffee station essentials come together in one arrangement.

The undivided large box holds the small jars. One small box sits on top; the other stands in front. The two medium boxes frame the arrangement.

A moment for yourself. Everything in its place.

All five boxes are shown. The spoon box is used with both dividers removed.

A place for every idea.

ON THE DESK

Pens, a notebook, glasses and small accessories each have their own space. Dividers organise smaller items, while open spaces hold longer objects.

On a desk or in a drawer large enough for the set, the arrangement adapts to the way you work.

Your essentials, within reach.

The pen box is shown with both dividers removed.

Everyday rituals, a little softer.

ON THE BATHROOM VANITY

Brushes, cotton pads and small accessories become part of a familiar ritual. Each type of item has its own compartment.

The boxes bring your essentials together on the bathroom vanity, with the same understated presence and black finish.

Precision starts here.

IN THE WORKSHOP

Bits, sockets, screws and small parts are sorted between the different box sizes. The large box holds longer tools.

A clear layout keeps groups of accessories distinct and makes it easy to return each item to its place after use.

A space for every piece.

The long-tool box is shown with both dividers removed.

Connect. Separate. Rearrange.

REMOVABLE CONNECTORS

The black plastic connectors sit flat in the outer grooves. Their long edges run along the grooves.

Bring the boxes together to connect them. The connectors remain removable, so you can change the layout.

Their profile features small teeth.

02

Divide

Slide the dividers into the grooves.

03

Connect

Fit the removable connectors between the modules.

04

Stack

Fit the raised frame into the box below.

Considered details, even underneath.

A RAISED FRAME

A raised frame projects from the underside of each box. It fits into the opening of the box below to guide stacking.

Four self-adhesive rubber pads are provided for each box. The set contains twenty.

HOW THE BOXES FIT TOGETHER

Conceptual section. Production fit to be validated on a prototype.

The raised frame fits against the inner walls of the box below. The outer edge of the base rests on its rim.

Elegance, from the first opening.

MATTE AND GLOSS

A matte black cardboard box houses the collection. The glossy logo and lettering catch the light, creating a tone-on-tone contrast.

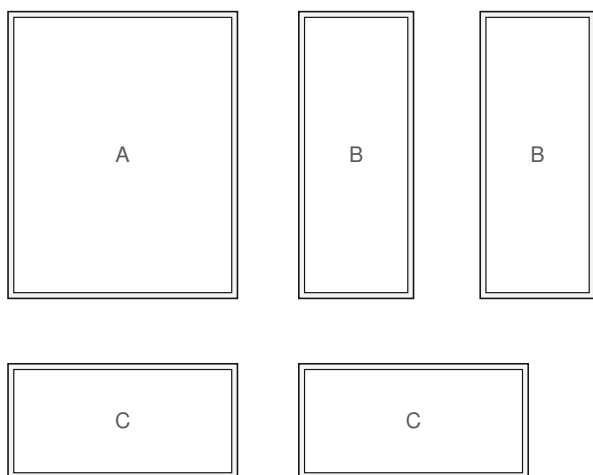

Inside: the five boxes, six dividers, rubber pads and removable connectors.

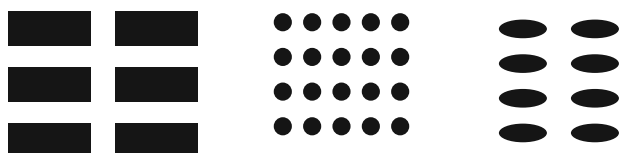

The same care, from the packaging to each module.

Every piece has its place.
